

Accompanies podcast "Color Test" - 10/31/21 at www.newdaynw.com/sermons

Read James 1:2-4

Do you find this passage a difficult one to read? If so, what about it is challenging?

In the Greek, the word translated as "joy" in most translations can also mean "recognized grace." How does it impact the way this verse feels when you read it that way?

Compare this passage with 1 Peter 1:6-7 and 4:12-16. What stands out as different between them? What common themes do you see?

What is a current trial you're experiencing? Do you feel like you can see God's grace in the middle of it?

In the sermon, it was said that these verses help us change our prayer from "God take this away" to "God, show me more of yourself in this." What does that thought raise for you?